Second Sunday in Ordinary Time

A Message from our Pastor

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

Now, after a joyful Christmas Season, we have returned to Ordinary Time. In most instances, we use the word “ordinary,” to mean something that is boring, unimpressive, or just regular. But that’s not the case when it comes to the Church’s use of the word. When I teach our little kids about the liturgical seasons, I often explain that we say Ordinary Time because this time is not one of the “high seasons” of Advent, Christmas, Lent, or Easter. We count the weeks between those seasons using the ordinal numbers – first, second, third, and so on. The color green worn by the clergy during the liturgy symbolizes growth and rejuvenation. A lot of work is happening in this time. It’s as if the Church invites us to unpack what we have just recalled during Christmas and now allow it to germinate and flourish within our lives.

In this weekend’s Gospel, we hear the wonderful story of Jesus’ first miracle at a wedding feast in Cana. We can imagine the feelings of everyone there when the bride and groom are about to suffer embarrassment at not having enough wine for their guests. Mary intercedes with her Son on their behalf and then speaks to the servants the final words we hear from her – “do whatever He tells you.” The servants are told to fill up the huge clay jars that had been used for the religious purifications associated with marriage rituals. That meant they would have had to carry them back to the well some distance away and then carry the even heavier loads back to the reception area. It was tough work. But, because they were obedient, Jesus took the ordinary water and made it into extraordinary wine! Jesus took their hard labor and the simple elements of water in a jar and performed a miracle that not only fixed the problem at hand but led many to believe that He was indeed the Messiah.

Like those servants at the wedding obeying the Blessed Mother’s command, let us do whatever her Son commands us. Jesus is the miracle worker. We are not. But we are called to bring Him our talents, skills, and unique contexts, and place them at His service. Jesus will do the rest. I cannot help but think of the beautiful reflection by Howard Thurman which captures this message so well:

When the song of the angels is stilled, when the star in the sky is gone, when the kings and princes are home,
when the shepherds are back with their flocks,
the work of Christmas begins: to find the lost,
to heal the broken, to feed the hungry,
to release the prisoner, to rebuild the nations,
to bring peace among the people,
to make music in the heart.

May we be good and faithful servants of the Master! God bless you and your families in the coming week!

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Happy Birthday to our Pastor, Fr. Greg! (Jan. 24th)

*Sending lots of love and prayers to a very special pastor on your birthday!
You have been such a blessing in our lives, and we are so thankful that you are our shepherd. May this day be one of joy and celebration!*

Saint Agnes-Feast Day January 21st

“A new kind of martyrdom!” exclaimed St. Ambrose, bishop of Milan. The assembly cheered and applauded. He was celebrating St. Agnes because she was a virgin, a martyr—and a child. She was executed at Rome in 304 during the Emperor Diocletian’s vicious persecution. Here are Ambrose’s observations on her death: St. Agnes is said to have suffered martyrdom at age 12.

The cruelty that did not spare so young a child was hateful, but the power of faith in the child was greater. Was there room for a wound in that small body? The sword could barely strike her, yet she had the inner strength to strike back. Girls of her age usually can’t even bear a parent’s angry glance. They cry at needles’ pricks as though they were wounds. Agnes, however, faced her persecutors fearlessly. When they attempted to force her to worship at the pagan altars, she stretched out her hands and made the sign of the cross over the sacrificial fires. She was not fazed by the heavy weight of the chains they wrapped around her. And she freely offered her body to the executioner’s sword. The executioner used both threats and allurements to try to change her mind. He encouraged young men to beg her to marry them. But she answered, “I already have a spouse, and I will not offend him by pretending that another might please me. I will give myself only to him who first chose me. So, executioner, what are you waiting for? Destroy this body that unwanted eyes desire.” Agnes stood and prayed. Then she bent down her neck. The executioner trembled as though he himself had been condemned. His right hand shook and his face grew pale, but the virgin showed no fear at all. So in one victim we have a twofold martyrdom of purity and faith, for Agnes both remained a virgin and also obtained martyrdom. Historians say that legends have embroidered the few facts we know about Agnes. But the stories are rooted in actual events and convey kernels of truth about her. These legends tell that Agnes was a beautiful and soon-to-be-marriageable young woman. Many eager young men pursued her, but she rebuffed them because she had consecrated her virginity to Christ. One spurned suitor took revenge by reporting to the authorities that Agnes was a Christian. She was brought before a judge who tried to persuade her to recant. He threatened her with fire and torture, but she did not flinch. Then he had her stripped at a brothel and urged young men to seduce her. “You may stain your sword with my blood,” she said, “but you will never profane my body that I have consecrated to Christ.” All were so stunned by her presence that only one boy tried to touch her. Legend says he was struck blind, and that Agnes healed him. Exasperated and egged on by her first accuser, the governor ordered her execution. Agnes was taken to the Stadium of Domitian, where she courageously faced a nervous soldier who hacked her to death with his sword. Over the centuries the little virgin martyr became one of the most popular saints in Christian history. St. Agnes’s death was “a new kind of martyrdom!” She taught us adults the meaning of valor while she was still a child. Agnes hurried to the place of her execution more joyfully than a bride goes to her wedding. And she was adorned not with plaited hair, but with Christ himself. (©Loyola Press)

Breaking Open the Word

Reflecting on next Sunday's Gospel before you come to Mass can bring so much more meaning to your experience of the Liturgy. Here's the Gospel for next Sunday. How does this Gospel touch your life?

January 26, 2025

Third Sunday in Ordinary Time

Lk 1:1-4, 4:14-21

Since many have undertaken to compile a narrative of the events that have been fulfilled among us, just as those who were eyewitnesses from the beginning and ministers of the word have handed them down to us, I too have decided, after investigating everything accurately anew, to write it down in an orderly sequence for you, most excellent Theophilus, so that you may realize the certainty of the teachings you have received.

Jesus returned to Galilee in the power of the Spirit, and news of him spread throughout the whole region. He taught in their synagogues and was praised by all.

He came to Nazareth, where he had grown up, and went according to his custom into the synagogue on the sabbath day. He stood up to read and was handed a scroll of the prophet Isaiah. He unrolled the scroll and found the passage where it was written:

The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me to bring glad tidings to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim liberty to captives and recovery of sight to the blind, to let the oppressed go free, and to proclaim a year acceptable to the Lord.

Rolling up the scroll, he handed it back to the attendant and sat down, and the eyes of all in the synagogue looked intently at him. He said to them, "Today this Scripture passage is fulfilled in your hearing."

Reflection Questions

- How does Jesus describe the vision of the world that God promised?
- At this point, Jesus is reading the text of the prophet Isaiah. After he sits down, Jesus says something new. What does Jesus say?
- What do you think Jesus means by this?
- What examples from Jesus' ministry can you name that show that he did these things?
- The work of Jesus continues in our world today. This reading gives us a clue about how this happens. The reading from the prophet Isaiah promised these things would be accomplished through the Spirit of the Lord. Jesus has given his Spirit to us. When did we receive the gift of the Holy Spirit? What does the Holy Spirit help us do?
- In what ways might we respond to the needs we see in the world today? We pray for the Holy Spirit to guide us and help us serve others in Jesus' name.
