Laetare Sunday

It's optional, but I've always liked it — when the Church's sacred ministers wear "pink" on Laetare Sunday — Roman Catholicism's Fourth Sunday of Lent.

The day's theme comes from the entrance antiphon reflecting on Isaiah 66:10-11: "Rejoice, Jerusalem, and all who love her. Be joyful, all who were in mourning; exalt and be satisfied at her consoling breast."

Laetare is the first word — meaning "rejoice" — in the Latin text. On Laetare Sunday (as similarly with the Third Sunday of Advent's Gaudete Sunday) the Church expresses hope and joy in the midst of our Lenten fasts and penances. Call it pink — or, more fittingly, rose — this change in color indicates a glimpse of the joy that awaits us at Easter, just before we enter into the somber days of Passiontide.

The joy of Easter being around the corner is symbolized in a few other interesting liturgical possibilities. During Lent, the General Instruction of the Roman Missal forbids flowers adorning the altar. But on Laetare Sunday (as well as solemnities and feasts within the season), there's a temporary halt to these penitential observations! I remember well decking out the altar with pink roses on that day when I was once a parish liturgy director.

At one time, marriages were generally forbidden during Lent, but Laetare Sunday was often associated as a day when marriages could be celebrated during the penitential season. While marriages are now only forbidden on Good Friday and Holy Saturday, Laetare Sunday is still a fitting day for those wishing to be married before Eastertide.

Laetare Sunday is the Church's way of giving us a "shot in the arm" as we approach the darkness and horror of the days through Good Friday and Holy Saturday. It's an opportunity to savor and keep in the back of our minds what awaits us on Easter Sunday — the reality that Jesus Christ is risen from the dead, and that our hearts will always be filled with joy!

Being aware of traditions and customs assists us in celebrating the beauty of our faith. As you can see, there is much associated with even a nondescript day like the Fourth Sunday of Lent — not to mention the rest of the season, or the 50 days of Easter and beyond. Take advantage of the richness of our Catholic traditions. (© Simply Catholic)

"Give and gifts will be given to you; a good measure, packed together, shaken down, and overflowing, will be poured into your lap. For the measure with which you measure will in return be measured out to you." Luke 6:38 This is a promise from God that He doesn't need a large amount, but will honor our generosity and obedience. Then, He can do a miracle to multiply and pour out blessings that overflow to our lives and others.

Breaking Open the Word

Reflecting on next Sunday's Gospel before you come to Mass can bring so much more meaning to your experience of the Liturgy. Here's the Gospel for next Sunday. How does this Gospel touch your life?

April 6, 2025

Fifth Sunday of Lent

John 8:1-11

Jesus went to the Mount of Olives. But early in the morning he arrived again in the temple area, and all the people started coming to him, and he sat down and taught them. Then the scribes and the Pharisees brought a woman who had been caught in adultery and made her stand in the middle. They said to him, "Teacher, this woman was caught in the very act of committing adultery. Now in the law, Moses commanded us to stone such women. So what do you say?" They said this to test him, so that they could have some charge to bring against him. Jesus bent down and began to write on the ground with his finger. But when they continued asking him, he straightened up and said to them, "Let the one among you who is without sin be the first to throw a stone at her." Again he bent down and wrote on the ground. And in response, they went away one by one, beginning with the elders. So he was left alone with the woman before him. Then Jesus straightened up and said to her, "Woman, where are they? Has no one condemned you?" She replied, "No one, sir." Then Jesus said, "Neither do I condemn you. Go, and from now on do not sin any more."

Reflection Questions

- Who brought the woman to Jesus and why did they?
- What was the charge against the woman and what was the punishment if she was found guilty?
- Jesus knew the questioners were trying to trap Him. If He recommended stoning the adulteress, it would have violated Roman law (John 18:31). Who would He have angered if He recommended letting her go?
- Rather than answering their question, what did Jesus do?
- Jesus bent down to write again. The elders and others went away one by one so that He was left alone with the woman. What did He ask her?
- In this passage the scribes and Pharisees tried to involve Jesus in the judgment and punishment of the "adulterous" woman. They wanted Him to support the stoning so they could report Him to the Romans for violating Roman law; or to oppose the stoning in which case they could say He opposed Mosaic law. But instead of taking the bait He silently wrote on the ground. Has someone tried to draw you into a situation in which you had to judge or condemn another person? How did you handle the situation?

It's astounding to me that on April 22, 2025, Hope House Ministries will celebrate our 45th Anniversary of providing critical services to those in need. Thousands of men, women, children, elderly and veterans have experienced true healing and restoration on account of our mission.

On behalf of those we are privileged to serve, our Board of Directors, staff, volunteers and donors, I would like to personally invite you to join us as we celebrate this remarkable milestone.

We hope you can join us as we thank God for 45 years of fruitful ministry and place our trust in his Divine Providence to guide us. With God's continued assistance, together we will anchor our future.
